

Philosophy and Race

PHILO 380

This course is about the interplay between race, racism and genocide. Some questions of interest are: What is race? How does race relate to racism? And how does racism lead to genocide? Firstly, we will examine the concepts of race and racial identity. Secondly, we will examine the concept of racism, and lastly, we will examine the concept of genocide. We will do so through contemporary issues concerning race and racism, and readings in history, political science, and philosophy.